FARMERS EXPECTED TO CONTINUE TOP FOOD PRODUCTION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Agriculture department officials expressed confidence today that the nation's farmers will follow through on the government's request to continue at top production for another year.

These officials said that although some farmers are "a little suspicious of hitting it hard for another year" in view of a possible drop in consumer purchasing power, they probably will try to achieve the government's goals.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson yesterday outlined a 1947 farm production program calling for a total acreage three per cent

COMMUNISTS IN LEAD AS FRANCE COUNTS VOTES

New Coalition Government Expected With Reds Demanding Power

PARIS, Nov. 11.—The Communists became the strongest party in France today, pulling ahead of the Popular Republicans in Sunday's election, and a spokesman said Maurice Thorez, Communist leader, will try to take over the premiership from Georges Bidault.

The party spokesman said the Communists will demand the right to form a government under leadership of Thorez. It appeared doubtful whether they would succeed.

The Communists won 168 seats in the new assembly from metropolitan France, Algeria and Corsica to 160 for Bidault's Popular Republicans. Colonial returns were not in. In popular vote the Communists received 5,430,593 to the Popular Republicans' 4,988,609.

While the Communists won party superiority, their parliamentary position was weakened by sizeable Socialist party losses. The Socialist-Communist bloc, long powerful in the chamber, controls only 46.1 per cent of the voting power.

Returns from the colonies, where the Popular Republicans have been stronger than the Communists, might put the Popular Republicans ahead in the final count of parliamentary seats.

Dominant political power now is centered in the Communists and Popular Republicans. Involved negotiations will ensue to determine whether both parties will join a coalition government, possibly including smaller parties, or whether one of the giants will try to form a government without the other.

Since neither of the great parties approaches a clear majority, the outlook was for another period of unstable French government.

500,000 POUNDS OF SUGAR LOST IN WHARF FIRE

ARABI, La., Nov. 11.—Officials of American sugar refinery today estimated that 500,000 pounds of scarce sugar were destroyed Sunday when a $3,000,000 fire swept company docks on the Mississippi river here.

The fire was aided by a high wind, and firemen were otherwise hampered when a section of the wharf caved in on an intake valve, cutting off the water supply. The blaze was brought under control after three hours.

While the 1,500-foot wharf was razed completely, Plant Manager N. B. Scott said the refinery itself suffered no damage. He estimated, however, the heavy losses would hold the plant below capacity production for at least 18 months. Scott said the $15,000,000 plant had a capacity of approximately 3,500,000 pounds of raw sugar daily. It is the nation's second largest sugar refinery.

President Asks GOP Cooperation

TRUMAN STATES HIS POLICY FOR NEXT TWO YEARS

Chief Executive Says He Will Work For 'Welfare Of All Our People'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—President Truman, admitting the possibility of "serious difficulties" in running this government, today appealed to the new Republican congress to cooperate with him for the welfare of the people.

After reviewing the possible difficulties which threaten as the result of having a Republican congress with the executive branch controlled by the Democrats, Mr. Truman put forth his policy for the next two years:

"I am guided by a simple formula: to do in all cases, from day to day, without regard to narrow political considerations, what seems to me to be the best for the welfare of all our people. Our search for that welfare must always be based upon a progressive concept of government."

"I shall cooperate in every proper manner with the members of congress, and my hope and prayer is that this spirit of cooperation will be reciprocated.

"To them, one and all, I pledge faith with faith, and promise to meet good will with good will."

It was in this spirit that the President accepted the verdict of the voters who swept the Republican party back into congressional power last Tuesday.

Mr. Truman made his declaration in a statement to an Armistice Day news conference.

The President said he was not concerned about those in either party who knew the seriousness of the problems confronting this country in foreign affairs.

But he followed this with an expression of concern "lest any in either party should seek in this field an opportunity to achieve personal notoriety or partisan advantage by exploitation of the sensational or by the mere creation of controversy."

The President emphasized the bipartisan nature of our current foreign policy.

"It has been a national and not a party program," he said, noting that members of both parties in and out of congress had sat in the inner councils of our foreign program.

"It will continue to be a national program insofar as the secretary of state and I are concerned," he said. "I firmly believe that our Republican colleagues who have worked intelligently and cooperatively with us in the past will do so in the future."

After reading his statement, Mr. Truman denied numerous re-

Backstage Talks Among Big Five Representatives Slated This Week

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 11.—United States representatives will begin backstage talks with delegates of the other big five powers this week in an effort to reach an agreement on the use of the big power veto in the United Nations security council.

American delegates had specific proposals almost ready to submit to the Russian, British, French and Chinese delegations as the answer to the small powers' campaign to revise or eliminate the veto power. The American proposals were aimed at putting more flexibility into the security council voting procedure without altering the UN charter.

Mr. Truman made his declaration in a statement to an Armistice Day news conference.

The President said he was not concerned about those in either party who knew the seriousness of the problems confronting this country in foreign affairs.

MOOSE CANDIDATES ARE INITIATED AT CEREMONY

Gordon Jeffrey, Toledo, governor of the Loyal Order of Moose lodge in Ohio, was the principal speaker Sunday afternoon at a meeting in Memorial Hall during which a class of charter members was initiated into the newly organized Circleville lodge. Comment from industry spokesmen:

Food—The department of agriculture said food prices would average "materially higher" than they did a year ago. However, most food price ceilings already had been removed in the decontrol movement of the last three weeks.

Meat prices already had begun to level off. Spokesmen said most foods except sugar and fats would be fairly plentiful.

Clothing—Lew Hahn, general manager of the National Retail Dry Goods association, said clothing prices in general may rise but will level off. He said that buyers could look for larger supplies of such scarce items as shirts, shorts, pajamas, slips, baby garments and house dresses. A spokesman for the rayon industry said prices for rayon goods would rise about 15 per cent. Leaders of the woolen industry said woolen fabrics would be more plentiful. They said the price of men's clothing may rise slightly, but women's clothing may drop, although increases were predicted for corsets, brassieres and hosiery. No further increase was expected in the already high price of cotton goods.

Automobiles—Spokesmen for Chrysler and Hudson declined to comment pending a further study of decontrols and market trends.

Ford Motor company said no increase was contemplated in the price of Ford cars or trucks.

A prominent used car dealer at Atlanta, Ga., predicted that good used cars would advance in price and that medium and "rough" cars would drop.

Building materials—Lewis Brown, chairman of Johns-Manville of New York city, said that with increasing production building materials will "work toward future reduction in building costs."

He predicted that the building black market would end in a few months. OPA officials, however, said prices on some building materials might rise as high as 100 per cent.

Furniture—Joseph Griswold, Jr., president of the Grand Rapids (Mich.) Furniture company, said he anticipated no major furniture price rises. He added, however, that there would be some "adjustments of inequities" in furniture prices, but he predicted that furniture particularly of the upholstered type, would increase in supply within four months.

LIQUIDATION OF AGENCY DUE AS CONTROLS END

Sweeping Order Frees All Items Except Rent, Sugar And Rice

(Continued from Page One) Roosevelt on April 11, 1941, "to develop a program of price control which would be in harmony with the traditions of the country and capable of meeting the economic strains and pressures which had made such control necessary." It was set up as an independent agency by congress early in 1942.

Program Bitter Issue

The price program became an issue in congress each Spring when the OPA act came up for renewal. New restrictions were imposed on OPA each year and OPA employees were repeatedly charged with flooding the country with propaganda in favor of the agency's position.

It was a fight over OPA extension that led to the resignation of Leon Henderson, the agency's first administrator, in 1943.

Henderson was succeeded by Prentiss Brown, a price-control minded senator from Michigan who had been defeated for reelection. He lasted only a few months. In October, 1943, Chester Bowles, a Connecticut advertising man, took over the reins as price administrator, and Porter took over the OPA job last February.

Rents Held Tight

Of the 8,000,000 commodities and services once estimated to be under price controls, the most firmly held ceiling was that on rents.

OPA had a difficult time holding clothing prices, which soared 140 per cent over pre-war levels on some items. Production became so concentrated in high priced, low-utility items that OPA launched repeated low-cost clothing drives to bring even a small supply of these items back on the market.

It was not price control but rationing that made OPA unpopular with the general public. On Jan. 5, 1942, only a month after Pearl Harbor, OPA began to ration tires. Then came the rationing of automobiles, sugar, typewriters, gasoline, meat, processed foods, edible fat and oils, shoes, rubber footwear, heating and cooking stoves and fuel, including fuel oil and coal.

Rationing of meat, butter, shoes and gasoline were the hardest programs to sell to the public, and there were thousands of violations. But on VJ-day OPA quickly announced the end of rationing gasoline, processed foods, fuel oil and oil stoves. All other rationing controls except on sugar were lifted by the end of 1945. Sugar continues under control at least until March 31, 1947.

BLAZE CAUSES $150 DAMAGE TO SOUTH END HOME

Firemen were summoned at 9:15 a. m. Monday to extinguish flames that caused damage estimated at $150 to the home of Peck Smith, Long alley.

The blaze originated in the upper portion of the house of undetermined origin. The property, a double house with one side untenantanted, is owned by Wilbur Bundy, Richmondale, fire chief Talmer Wise said. The principal damage, he said, was to the front part of the second floor.

Although the family was absent at the time of the blaze, Chief Wise said, neighbors told him that Mrs. Smith was in the house shortly before the fire. The fire, chief said he understood the loss was covered by insurance.

LONDON, Nov. 11—Scotland Yard posted special guards at Whitehall buildings today after the publication of reports that Jewish underground agents had slipped into London and that the lives of Prime Minister Clement Attlee and other officials had been threatened.

Unconfirmed reports circulated that the British war office had called extra troops into London as a precaution prompted by threats attributed to Jewish malcontents.

Special measures were planned to protect the royal family, especially tomorrow when King George will drive from Buckingham palace to parliament for the formal opening of a new session.

Nikolai Novikov, Soviet ambassador to Washington, was scheduled to make the first Russian statement in the assembly trusteeship committee, where the 51 United Nations are trying to set up a UN trusteeship council this year. Novikov, who postponed his statement from Friday until today, was to speak specifically on eight draft trusteeship agreements handed to the assembly by Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand and Belgium for transferring to UN trusteeship territories they now hold under League of Nation mandates.

The proposals of at least three of the five countries must get the approval of two-thirds of the assembly if the trusteeship council is to be established this year.

Delegates also awaited Russia's reaction to the American plan for placing the Japanese-mandated islands of the Pacific under a strategic trusteeship which would give the U. S. exclusive control of them and permit the construction of secret American military and naval bases there. As a proposed strategic trusteeship, if differs from the other eight before the assembly and will have to be approved by the security council. If it is not approved, the U. S. plans to retain control of the islands anyway.

He said he knew of no resignations pending or in prospect. This included the cabinet and agency heads and his own staff.

He rejected as without foundation a rumor that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would quit as Army chief of staff because of differences with the administration over the size of the war department appropriation.

Asked whether he planned now to call a special session of congress, the President said he had no present plans to do so. Furthermore he said he saw no reason for calling such a session.

At the outset of his written statement, Mr. Truman said that he would not be frank if he failed to admit that the present situation threatened serious difficulties.

Calling on both parties to help this nation forward without regard to political considerations, the President said "the stake is large—our great internal strength and our eminent position in the world are not, as some may too easily assume, indestructible."

He admitted, too, that issues between the President and the Congress would be inevitable.

"When this occurs, we must examine our respective positions with stern and critical analyses to exclude any attempt to tamper with the public interest in order to achieve personal or partisan advantage."

Graham and Hart were released from the hospital after being treated for exposure.

RATIONING OF SUGAR THROUGH 1947 PREDICTED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—A top OPA sugar expert believes it will be necessary to continue sugar rationing through 1947 but thinks there's a chance rations will be increased next Spring.

Unless congress decides otherwise, the government's authority to ration sugar expires March 31 with termination of the second war powers act.

George A. Dice, director of the OPA sugar rationing division, said he believed the program should be continued after March 31.

Residents in the area reported failure of power and telephone service shortly after the crash. The craft came down in an open field a mile north of the airport. Its fuselage was broken in two and the front cabin torn off. The two engines were thrown clear of the wreckage.

The airliner sheared off the tops of two trees after striking the power line, and churned 100 feet along the ground. The pilot and co-pilot were thrown 75 feet from the wreckage.

Eleven of the injured had been released from hospitals at 7:30 a. m. after treatment for minor hurts.

The plane was bound from Chicago to Boston, via Cleveland and Hartford, Conn.

It withdrew after the first approach and the pilot signaled the airport he would again attempt to land in 5 minutes. The crash occurred at 8:30 a. m.

Residents in the area reported failure of power and telephone service shortly after the crash.

RESCUE CREWS BUSY AS FIRST BIG SNOW FALLS

Colorado Ranch Families
Marooned; 40,000 Cattle
Without Food

WALSENBURG, Colo., Nov. 11.—Civilian rescue crews, manning Army trucks and weasels, pushed on at dawn today carrying food and fuel for snowbound ranch families and fodder for an estimated 40,000 cattle marooned on blizzard-swept rangelands.

Darkness and extreme cold last night had halted mass mobile rescue expeditions throughout southern Colorado. But at daybreak caravans of heavy trucks and tank-like weasels rumbled forward through huge snowdrifts on mercy missions to human beings and animals caught in the icy throes of unexpected winter.

Twelve persons had died in Colorado as a result of the series of storms, chiefly from heart attacks brought on by over-exertion wading through deep snow or struggling with stalled automobiles. A thirteenth person, a sheepherder, was given up for dead after a fruitless search through a mountain area where he had taken his flock before the snow started.

Nearly 50 vehicles from the Pueblo army ordnance depot were on rescue missions over a wide area, as well as Army and private planes. They were recruited in the wake of a second snowstorm Saturday which aggravated already-serious conditions from the blizzard of Nov. 2.

One weasel-born party set out early today from Rattlesnake Butte, its all-night camping spot, toward the snowbound ranch home of Harry Willis, 10 miles away. Willis called for aid in getting his wife to a hospital for the birth of a child.

The rescue party fought snowdrifts up to 10 feet deep all day yesterday, covering only 20 miles. Mrs. Willis was to be taken in the weasel to an open highway where a passenger car could speed her to Walsenburg.

The U. S. weather bureau in Denver reported early this morning that the coldest spot was Fort Collins in northwest Colorado where the temperature dipped to two degrees below zero. Denver recorded eight above from a low of five above, and Pueblo had an early morning temperature of eight degrees.

The temperatures in other cities were: Colorado Springs, nine; La Junta, 10; Akron, seven; Leadville, four, and Durango 25.

A heavy Army truck completed the rescue of Bonnie Savah, a young boy, from his isolated mountain home late yesterday. The youth was said to be seriously ill.

The truck, plodding up a narrow mountain road toward the Savah ranch, 20 miles from Walsenburg, met a team of horses pulling a pickup truck through the snow about midway in the trip. The Savah family had struck out with the ill youth to meet the rescuers. He was put aboard the truck and taken to a doctor at nearby Gardner.

KINGSTON

Annual Thank Offering service of the Presbyterian Missionary Society, will be held in the church, Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 13, at 2 o'clock.

The speakers will be Mrs. M. F. Foltz of Westerville and Miss Otto Horn of Columbus. There will be special musical numbers and tea will be served at 4 o'clock, to all the ladies of the church and their guests.

A party of Kingston people motored to Cincinnati, Thursday, to spend the day. They attended the Ruth Lyons' "Morning Matinee", at Station WLW, ate lunch at the Hotel Gibson and attended a stage off without feed miles from their home ranches when the first snowstorm struck unexpectedly. Many trucks also were forging through almost impassable roads to take feed to marooned cattle, sheep and horses.

Arthur L. Allen of Pueblo, president of the Colorado state livestock commission, estimated about 35,000 to 40,000 head of cattle were stranded in the southeastern quarter of Colorado.

The program covers were judged

GETTING AT THE CAUSE

IN a review of John Hershey's Hiroshima, Louis Ridenour writing in the Saturday Review of Literature makes the point that the atomic bomb is no more terrible weapon than any tool of war. It is merely more effective. About 100,000 people, he says, were burned up in an earlier raid on Tokyo by hundreds of low-flying B-29's. The Hiroshima destruction was carried out by one machine and an 11-man crew.

Next the reviewer opposes the idea that bombing civilians is criminal. In modern warfare anything that destroys the back-home supply line of the fighting forces is legitimate. Modern war depends on civilian industrialization as much as on infantry. The moral of Hershey's book, Ridenour says, is that war is the crime, and not the means employed.

Hated is a natural conclusion to come out of a world suddenly at peace. But the thought is not carried far enough. It is like saying any crime is wrong—juvenile delinquency, for instance. Granted. But sociologists have learned that is the causes of delinquency that must be attacked, the conditions that bring it about.

So with war. When the Japanese dropped bombs on Pearl Harbor, they had to be met. When the Germans overran all Europe and bombed Londoners, they had to be stopped. If situations arise again where free people's homelands are attacked, there will be war.

The aim of the present UN meetings is not primarily to prevent war. It is to set relationships in the family of nations in such a way that there will be no need of war.

CHINA'S LEADER

CHINA'S next big anniversary comes in 1950. This will be the 2,500th anniversary of the birth of Confucius, which the Chinese plan to celebrate on a large scale. Well they may, for their country with its diverse races and dialects, incomprehensible to dwellers in other parts of the world, could hardly have been held together through the ages without the all-pervading influence of the precepts of the great Chinese sage.

Confucius was a practical man, a successful prime minister. He saw deep into human nature, and his advice holds good throughout the world. Confucianism is a way of life rather than a religion; it is possible to be a Buddhist, a Christian, or an atheist and still be a Confucian. People picking up any of his writings for the first time are amazed at his practical sense. The one trouble with him is that his admirers have tended to believe that there can be nothing good in the world which is not in Confucian writings. Confucius himself would have been far too sane to agree with them.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WAshington, Nov. 11—A thorough understanding of the election result is available in a knowing study of the New York City figures. Democratic boss Ed Flynn, who managed the entire fourth term campaign for Roosevelt, lost 6 out of the 13 election districts in his own Bronx in his own party vote. In these districts the Dewey Republican vote was larger than the Mead Democratic vote. In only two of these districts was the American Labor party (charged with Communism) vote sufficient to let him skim through.

Now Mr. Flynn's trouble is shown to be that he lost Democratic votes. The A L P vote, my city experts tell me, was about what was expected. But by playing with this faction, Flynn alienated so many Democratic votes he barely shaved through at home.

Somewhat the same story was told by New York City as a whole. Dewey got 1,179,000 votes in that Tammany-controlled Democratic stronghold against only 850,000 Democratic votes for Mead. Lehman did but little better against Ives, the city bi-partisan vote being Ives 1,007,000 against 963,000 for Lehman. In both cases the ALP contributed 355,000 votes to Mead and 366,000 votes to Lehman (they expected 390,000), which, added to the regular Democratic vote, enabled them barely to win the city. But by such tactics, here again, the Democratic leadership chased away so many Democratic voters that they actually politically weakened themselves—and actually defeated themselves in their races.

Now the Democratic strategy was unmistakably plain. They figured they would play with the Communists, leftists, radicals or whatever that faction may want to call itself, and that the faction would contribute enough votes to win. The strategy of the faction is equally obvious. The small communists, etc. minority wanted to establish itself in control by wielding a political balance of power over the Democrats. Although numerically weak, they succeeded in engineering Democratic campaign strategy to the leftist viewpoint, believing that the Democrats had to go to Communism to win.

This is the political lesson of the election. The nation's adverse element (if not subversive) could not contribute enough to the Democrats to win an election even in their strongest city. On the other hand, the Democrats lost the election by playing around with such groups.

Now, because they lost on such bad strategy, a large number of Democrats have developed political melancholia. A congressman first suggested President Truman should resign, southern and Chicago newspapers chimed in likewise, and a CIO candidate who had been defeated, thought so too. They wanted to get their own president to quit, appoint Senator Vandenberg as state secretary and have him succeed to the presidency.

This is not the American system. The American system provides for election of presidents every four years and congress every two—and abiding by the results of the election.

The election said this nation should have a two-party government at this critical time. I think it was right. This country was made up on a two-party basis, and it fell into the one party rut (like the one parties of communism and fascism) under a Democratic regime which perpetuated itself in office too long. The election said the people want our system.

getting a better than even break in relation to industrial prices. To help the cotton farmer, there are only certain things the government can do. One is to have the Commodity Credit Corporation buy cotton at parity, or to make loans on it at 92½ per cent of parity. Neither operation would bolster the cotton price so long as it was above parity. At most, it would only put a floor under the decline.

Some southern members of Congress are putting pressure on the administration to force removal of OPA price ceilings on cotton textiles in an effort to bring about a cotton price recovery. This would mean higher prices for clothing.

LIFTING OF PRICE CONTROLS on shoes will bring footwear back to the retail trade in substantial amounts. However, do not look for it to happen immediately. Reason—virtually no hides were cured during the period after removal of price controls on livestock because hides were still on the control list.

This made it unprofitable for tanners to operate and caused the sharp drop in shoe production. Sole leather was the chief problem.

Now that ceilings are off both hides and the finished shoes, industry sources have the green light for full production. It will take several months to get the leather output back to requirements, not so long as to make the shoes when manufacturers get the materials.

Some industry sources predict a 15 to 20 per cent boost in shoe prices.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S four-motored DC-54, "The Sacred Cow," which has churned its way to most of the recent important international meetings, is not the popular plane which many people believe. Its luxurious fittings and equipment, pilots say, make it more difficult to handle than ordinary planes of the same type.

Toppling all the cumbersome fittings, the metal elevator constructed to enable the late President Roosevelt to enter the plane, still remains in the tail to give it added weight. Just seems no one has gotten around to taking it out.

Mr. Roosevelt never liked the plane, considered it as extravagance in war-time, and only used it once on the persuasion of Secretary Byrnes.

THE UPHEAVER OVER THE BREAK in the cotton price would indicate that southern cotton farmers were suffering severe losses. As a matter of fact, the decline for the most part has simply erased gains made in the last few months.

Cotton has been selling at above parity, despite the break. And parity means a price on an equality with the prices of farm machinery and other products which the farm has to buy. Therefore, as long as the cotton farmer is getting more than parity, he is

Treatment of Toxic Goitre

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MOST people think of toxic goitre as a condition in which the thyroid gland overworks to produce far too much of its stimulating secretion. That is untrue, but doctors today are coming to believe that the over-activity of the thyroid gland is only the most outstanding part of a much more widespread disturbance, in which many other parts of the body are involved.

In those cases in which the eye symptoms are severe and other symptoms such as nervousness are also present, treatment of the condition with X-ray may be advisable. Recently, these patients have been treated with what is known as radioactive iodine. This is iodine that has been subjected to the rays in the cyclotron which is a device in which atoms are shattered.

Protection of Eyes

There are some things which can be done to help protect the eyes. Greasing of the eyes at bedtime with plain petroleum, keeping the lids shut with tape or bandages, and the use of smoked glasses may be helpful. Sleeping with the head raised on several pillows helps to reduce the swelling and the feeling of pressure in the eyes.

When proper treatment of the thyroid condition is carried out, slow improvement may be brought about or at least the disorder may be kept from progressing. However, the patient must be under constant care by the physician so that, if alarming symptoms develop, they may be promptly taken care of.

Mrs. Ahn has recently returned from Europe where she visited England, Greece, Italy, France, Germany and Poland. She related her experiences abroad where she went as an American home maker with the W.L.W. commission. She gave first hand survey of the housing, clothing and food conditions in those countries.

As international relations is an important part of the club's program her talk was of great interest to the 105 persons present. ## BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"THE OVERCOAT" SUIT
MANY VETERAN players call the spade suit "the overcoat" because it can cover any other suit during the auction without raising the level of the bidding. That is usually a great advantage, though it is not always so in the early stages of the auction, when your partner can't respond with another suit except by going one degree higher. But at the windup, especially when one side is trying to sacrifice against the other in the game and slam zone, the side with the spades has the edge.

Warning Against Diphteria Issued To All Parents

COUNTY IS FREE OF DIPHTHERIA
AT THE PRESENT

Immunization Program In All Schools Carried On;
Wider Use Urged

Warning to Pickaway county residents against the spread of diphteria was received Monday by Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, from Dr. Roger E. Heering, state director of health.

In a bulletin, issued from the Ohio Department of Health, Columbus, to all local health commissioners, Dr. Heering urged immunization—immediately—as the best precaution against the disease.

Dr. Blackburn announced that Pickaway county was clear of diphteria but he pointed out there is no way of determining the number of "carriers" of the disease in the county.

"Close to 95 per cent of the school children in Pickaway county have been immunized and the majority of the youngsters also have received 'booster' shots," declared Dr. Blackburn. "The danger spot is the large number of boys and girls of pre-school age, children from 6 months to 6 years old, who have had no immunization either for diphteria, smallpox or for other disease. The county health department has no way of reaching these children."

The county health commissioner urged parents to take these children immediately to their family physician and to have the youngsters properly immunized, for the protection of the children, the families, and the community.

The state bulletin from Dr. Heering said:

"Ohio has not escaped the general rise in diphteria incidence which has affected the whole nation in recent years. It is believed that returning veterans, some of whom may be diphteria carriers, have had a definite part in giving rise to this higher incidence. Lack of complete immunization programs during the war years is another reason. Whatever the cause, the number of diphteria cases has risen to dangerous heights and every effort must be directed toward a reduction."

"For the year 1945, 773 cases of diphteria were reported to the Division of Communicable Diseases of the Ohio Department of Health and 170 needless deaths occurred. To date in 1946, 740 cases have already been reported with the season of greatest expected occurrence still ahead of us."

"If more parents realized the life-saving factor of diphteria prevention by protective immunization, the incidence of this dread disease would surely be lessened. It is unquestionably the duty of local physicians and local health departments to acquaint parents with their responsibility to their children concerning diphteria and the effective protective measures available. No child, or adult, need die of diphteria in Ohio!"

"The answer is immunization now, without delay! Immunize at once all of those who have not had this protection, and give booster doses to those who have not had "shots" for a number of years. It is important that all children

FARMERS EXPECTED TO CONTINUE TOP FOOD PRODUCTION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 — Agriculture department officials expressed confidence today that the nation's farmers will follow through on the government's request to continue at top production for another year.

These officials said that although some farmers are "a little suspicious of hitting it hard for another year" in view of a possible drop in consumer purchasing power, they probably will try to achieve the government's goals.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson yesterday outlined a 1947 farm production program calling for a total acreage three per cent larger than this year when many crops were of record or near record size.

Anderson conceded that another all-out production effort was hazardous from the standpoint of good farming practices. But he said the worldwide need for food and other farm goods justified the risk.

Anderson urged sharp increases in the production of cotton, flax, dry beans, soybeans, barley and grain sorghums. In view of the acute global shortage of fats and oils, the need for oilseed crops such as soybeans and cotton is very great.

He also recommended the slaughter of 34,500,000 beef cattle next year against only 32,000,000 this year.

Coupled with a 13 per cent hike in the Spring pig crop and the production of the same number of sheep and lambs as this year, such a beef kill would provide Americans with an average of about 155 pounds of meat per person.

This is slightly higher than this year's supply of between 140 and 145 pounds of meat per person and sharply above the prewar average of 126 pounds.

It was in this spirit that the President accepted the verdict of the voters who swept the Republican party back into congressional power last Tuesday.

Mr. Truman made his declaration in a statement to an Armistice Day news conference.

The President said he was not concerned about those in either party who knew the seriousness of the problems confronting this country in foreign affairs.

But he followed this with an expression of concern "lest any in either party should seek in this field an opportunity to achieve partisan notoriety or partisan advantage by exploitation of the sensational or by the mere creation of controversy."

The President emphasized the bipartisan nature of our current foreign policy.

"It has been a national and not a party program," he said, noting that members of both parties in and out of congress had sat in the inner councils of our foreign programs.

Meanwhile, Soviet Russia was set to open another busy week of UN general assembly committee

Food—The department of agriculture said food prices would average "materially higher" than they did a year ago. However, most food price ceilings already had been removed in the decontrol movement of the last three weeks. Meat prices already had begun to level off. Spokesmen said most foods except sugar and fats would be fairly plentiful.

Clothing—Lew Hahn, general manager of the National Retail Dry Goods association, said clothing prices in general may rise but will level off. He said that buyers could look for larger supplies of such scarce items as shirts, shorts, pajamas, slips, baby garments and house dresses. A spokesman for the rayon industry said prices for rayon goods would rise about 15 per cent. Leaders of the woolen industry said woolen fabrics would be more plentiful. They said the price of men's clothing may rise slightly, but women's clothing may drop, although increases were predicted for corsets, brassieres and hosiery. No further increase is expected in the already high price of cotton goods.

Automobiles—Spokesmen for Chrysler and Hudson declined to comment pending a further study of decontrols and market trends.

Ford Motor company said no increase was contemplated in the price of Ford cars or trucks. A prominent used car dealer at Atlanta, Ga., predicted that good used cars would advance in price and that medium and "rough" cars would drop.

Building materials—Lewis Brown, chairman of Johns-Manville of New York city, said that with increasing production building materials will "work toward future reduction in building costs."

He predicted that the building black market would end in a few months. OPA officials, however, said prices on some building materials might rise as high as 100 per cent.

Furniture—Joseph Griswold, Jr., president of the Grand Rapids (Mich.) Furniture company, said he anticipated no major furniture price rises. He added, however, that there would be some "adjustments of inequities" in furniture prices, but he predicted that furniture particularly of the upholstered type, would increase in supply within four months.

LIQUIDATION OF AGENCY DUE AS CONTROLS END

Sweeping Order Frees All Items Except Rent, Sugar And Rice

(Continued from Page One) Roosevelt on April 11, 1941, "to develop a program of price control which would be in harmony with the traditions of the country and capable of meeting the economic strains and pressures which had made such control necessary." It was set up as an independent agency by congress early in 1942.

Program Bitter Issue

The price program became an issue in congress each Spring when the OPA act came up for renewal. New restrictions were imposed on OPA each year and OPA employees were repeatedly charged with flooding the country with propaganda in favor of the agency's position.

It was a fight over OPA extension that led to the resignation of Leon Henderson, the agency's first administrator, in 1943.

Henderson was succeeded by Prentiss Brown, a price-control minded senator from Michigan who had been defeated for reelection. He lasted only a few months. In October, 1943, Chester Bowles, a Connecticut advertising man, took over the reins as price administrator, and Porter took over the OPA job last February.

Rents Held Tight

Of the 8,000,000 commodities and services once estimated to be under price controls, the most firmly held ceiling was that on rents.

OPA had a difficult time holding clothing prices, which soared 140 per cent over pre-war levels on some items. Production became so concentrated in high priced, low-quality items that OPA launched repeated low-cost clothing drives to bring even a small supply of these items back on the market.

It was not price control but rationing that made OPA unpopular with the general public. On Jan. 5, 1942, only a month after Pearl Harbor, OPA began to ration tires. Then came the rationing of automobiles, sugar, typewriters, gasoline, meat, processed foods, edible fat and oils, shoes, rubber footwear, heating and cooking stoves and fuel, including fuel oil and coal.

Rationing of meat, butter, shoes and gasoline were the hardest programs to sell to the public, and there were thousands of violations. But on VJ-day OPA quickly announced the end of rationing gasoline, processed foods, fuel oil and oil stoves. All other rationing controls except on sugar were lifted by the end of 1945. Sugar continues under control at least until March 31, 1947.

BLAZE CAUSES $150 DAMAGE TO SOUTH END HOME

Firemen were summoned at 9:15 a.m. Monday to extinguish flames that caused damage estimated at $150 to the home of Peck Smith, Long alley.

The blaze originated in the upper portion of the house of undetermined origin. The property, a double house with one side untenanted, is owned by Wilbur Bundy, Richmonddale, fire chief Palmer Wise said. The principal damage, he said, was to the front part of the second floor.

Although the family was absent at the time of the blaze, Chief Wise said, neighbors told him that Mrs. Smith was in the house shortly before the fire. The fire, chief said he understood the loss was covered by insurance.

RUMORS AIM BRITISH ADVERSERS ARE THRTENED

LONDON, Nov. 11—Scotland Yard posted special guards at Whitehall buildings today after the publication of reports that Jewish underground agents had slipped into London and that the lives of Prime Minister Clement Attlee and other officials had been threatened.

Unconfirmed reports circulated that the British war office had called extra troops into London as a precaution prompted by threats attributed to Jewish malcontents.

Nikolai Novikov, Soviet ambassador to Washington, was scheduled to make the first Russian statement in the assembly trusteeship committee, where the 51 United Nations are trying to set up a UN trusteeship council this year.

Novikov, who postponed his statement from Friday until today, was to speak specifically on eight draft trusteeship agreements handed to the assembly by Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand and Belgium for transferring to UN trusteeship territories they now hold under League of Nation mandates.

The proposals of at least three of the five countries must get the approval of two-thirds of the assembly if the trusteeship council is to be established this year.

Delegates also awaited Russia's reaction to the American plan for placing the Japanese-mandated islands of the Pacific under a strategic trusteeship which would give the U.S. exclusive control of them and permit the construction of secret American military and naval bases there. As a proposed strategic trusteeship, it differs from the other eight before the assembly and will have to be approved by the security council. If it is not approved, the U.S. plans to retain control of the islands anyway.

He said he knew of no resignations pending or in prospect. This included the cabinet and agency heads and his own staff.

He rejected as without foundation a rumor that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would quit as Army chief of staff because of differences with the administration over the size of the war department appropriation.

Asked whether he planned now to call a special session of congress, the President said he had no present plans to do so. Furthermore he said he saw no reason for calling such a session.

At the outset of his written statement, Mr. Truman said that he would not be frank if he failed to admit that the present situation threatened serious difficulties.

Calling on both parties to help this nation forward without regard to political considerations, the President said "the stake is large — our great internal strength and our eminent position in the world are not, as some may too easily assume, indestructible."

He admitted, too, that issues between the President and the congress would be inevitable.

"When this occurs, we must examine our respective positions with stern and critical analyses to exclude any attempt to tamper with the public interest in order to achieve personal or partisan advantage."

Graham said: "I... saw a man in the water. Someone had fastened a long rope to the bridge... so I climbed down it."

Graham and Hart were released from the hospital after being treated for exposure.

RATIONING OF SUGAR THROUGH 1947 PREDICTED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—A top OPA sugar expert believes it will be necessary to continue sugar rationing through 1947 but thinks there's a chance rations will be increased next Spring.

Unless congress decides otherwise, the government's authority to ration sugar expires March 31 with termination of the second war powers act.

George A. Dice, director of the OPA sugar rationing division, said the program should be continued after March 31.

COUNTY NATIVE KILLED IN JUMP FROM HOSPITAL

Samuel Noggle, 62, a carpenter who was a native Pickaway county and former Ashville resident but who for 25 years lived at Canal Winchester, leaped from the window of his fourth-floor room at St. Anthony's hospital, Columbus, at 3:50 a.m. Monday. He died two hours later.

In the air line strike, Chairman Frank P. Douglass of the national mediation board said TWA and its striking pilots were "closer to agreement than ever before." He said the union had agreed that the issue of a fixed monthly pay rate for pilots be left to arbitration.

The hotel strike at Philadelphia ended after 10 days when hotel workers accepted a promise of wage increases if rent ceilings are raised.

The strikers, members of the CIO Hotel, Restaurant and Building Service Workers, voted unanimously to accept promises of wage increases equalling half the percentage of rent ceiling raises.

In the motion picture industry strike at Hollywood, the striking Conference of Studio Unions (AFL), announced it would boycott motion picture theaters and the films of stars who "flagrantly" disregard picket lines around studios. Strike leaders said the nationwide boycott would be supported by AFL Carpenters, Painters and Electricians who would refuse to work in theaters affected.

Graveside services will be conducted at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday at the Reber Hill cemetery.

TWO KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

The plane was bound from Chicago to Boston, via Cleveland and Hartford, Conn.

It withdrew after the first approach and the pilot signaled the airport he would again attempt to land in a few minutes. The crash occurred at 3:30 a.m.

Residents in the area reported failure of power and telephone service shortly after the crash. The craft came down in an open field a mile north of the airport. Its fuselage was broken in two and the front cabin shorn off. The two engines were thrown clear of the wreckage.

The airliner sheared off the tops of two trees after striking the power line, and churned 100 feet along the ground. The pilot and co-pilot were thrown 75 feet from the wreckage.

Eleven of the injured had been released from hospitals at 7:30 a.m. after treatment for minor hurts.

RESCUE CREWS BUSY AS FIRST BIG SNOW FALLS

Colorado Ranch Families
Marooned; 40,000 Cattle
Without Food

WALSENBURG, Colo., Nov. 11
—Civilian rescue crews, manning Army trucks and weasels, pushed on at dawn today carrying food and fuel for snowbound ranch families and fodder for an estimated 40,000 cattle marooned on blizzard-swept rangelands.

Darkness and extreme cold last night had halted mass mobile rescue expeditions throughout southern Colorado. But at daybreak caravans of heavy trucks and tank-like weasels rumbled forward through huge snowdrifts on mercy missions to human beings and animals caught in the icy throes of unexpected Winter.

Twelve persons had died in Colorado as a result of the series of storms, chiefly from heart attacks brought on by over-exertion wading through deep snow or struggling with stalled automobiles. A thirteenth person, a sheepherder, was given up for dead after a fruitless search through a mountain area where he had taken his flock before the snow started.

Nearly 50 vehicles from the Pueblo army ordnance depot were on rescue missions over a wide area, as well as Army and private planes. They were recruited in the wake of a second snowstorm Saturday which aggravated already-serious conditions from the blizzard of Nov. 2.

One weasel-born party set out early today from Rattlesnake Butte, its all-night camping spot, toward the snowbound ranch home of Harry Willis, 10 miles away.
Willis called for aid in getting his wife to a hospital for the birth of a child.

The rescue party fought snow-drifts up to 10 feet deep all day yesterday, covering only 20 miles.
Mrs. Willis was to be taken in the weasel to an open highway where a passenger car could speed her to Walsenburg.

The U. S. weather bureau in Denver reported early this morning that the coldest spot was Fort Collins in northwest Colorado where the temperature dipped to two degrees below zero. Denver recorded eight above from a low of five above, and Pueblo had an early morning temperature of eight degrees.

The temperatures in other cities were: Colorado Springs, nine; La Junta, 10; Akron, seven; Leadville, four, and Durango 25.

A heavy Army truck completed the rescue of Bonnie Savah, a young boy, from his isolated mountain home late yesterday. The youth was said to be seriously ill.

The truck, plodding up a narrow mountain road toward the Savah ranch, 20 miles from Walsenburg, met a team of horses pulling a pickup truck through the snow about midway in the trip. The Savad family had struck out with the ill youth to meet the rescuers.
He was put aboard the truck and taken to a doctor at nearby Gardner.

Airplanes based at Pueblo were flying hay to herds of cattle cut

POLICE STILL PROBING LEGION HOME BURGLARY

Fingerprints were being checked Monday by police in an attempt to establish identity of the thieves who burglarized the American Legion club, 136 East Main street, early Saturday.

Although the amount of the loot has not been definitely disclosed by police or Legion officials, it has been unofficially reported that between $4,000 and $5,000 in currency and coins were stolen from a cash box and from several slot machines in the second-floor bar and club rooms.

The club was closed at midnight
Friday and the burglary was discovered when the place was reopened Saturday. Some of the slot machines had been opened with keys obtained from a hiding place within the club rooms, and others were smashed open to obtain the coin contents. The cash box was also found in its place of concealment.

GETTING AT THE CAUSE

IN a review of John Hershey's Hiroshima, Louis Ridenour writing in the Saturday Review of Literature makes the point that the atomic bomb is no more terrible weapon than any tool of war. It is merely more effective. About 100,000 people, he says, were burned up in an earlier raid on Tokyo by hundreds of low-flying B-29's. The Hiroshima destruction was carried out by one machine and an 11-man crew.

Next the reviewer opposes the idea that bombing civilians is criminal. In modern warfare anything that destroys the back-home supply line of the fighting forces is legitimate. Modern war depends on civilian industrialization as much as on infantry. The moral of Hershey's book, Ridenour says, is that war is the crime, and not the means employed.

That is a natural conclusion to come out of a world suddenly at peace. But the thought is not carried far enough. It is like saying any crime is wrong—juvenile delinquency, for instance. Granted. But sociologists have learned that is the causes of delinquency that must be attacked, the conditions that bring it about.

So with war. When the Japanese dropped bombs on Pearl Harbor, they had to be met. When the Germans overran all Europe and bombed Londoners, they had to be stopped. If situations arise again where free people's homelands are attacked, there will be war.

The aim of the present UN meetings is not primarily to prevent war. It is to set relationships in the family of nations in such a way that there will be no need of war.

CHINA'S LEADER

CHINA'S next big anniversary comes in 1950. This will be the 2,500th anniversary of the birth of Confucius, which the Chinese plan to celebrate on a large scale. Well they may, for their country with its diverse races and dialects, incomprehensible to dwellers in other parts of the world, could hardly have been held together through the ages without the all-pervading influence of the precepts of the great Chinese sage.

Confucius was a practical man, a successful prime minister. He saw deep into human nature, and his advice holds good throughout the world. Confucianism is a way of life rather than a religion; it is possible to be a Buddhist, a Christian, or an atheist and still be a Confucian. People picking up any of his writings for the first time are amazed at his practical sense. The one trouble with him is that his admirers have tended to believe that there can be nothing good in the world which is not in Confucian writings. Confucius himself would have been far too sane to agree with them.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—A thorough understanding of the election result is available in a knowing study of the New York City figures. Democratic boss Ed Flynn, who managed the entire fourth term campaign for Roosevelt, lost 6 out of the 13 election districts in his own Bronx in his own party vote. In these districts the Dewey Republican vote was larger than the Mead Democratic vote. In only two of these districts was the American Labor party (charged with Communism) vote sufficient to let him skim through.

Now Mr. Flynn's trouble is shown to be that he lost Democratic votes. The ALP vote, my city experts tell me, was about what was expected. But by playing with this faction, Flynn alienated so many Democratic votes he barely shaved through at home.

Somewhat the same story was told by New York City as a whole. Dewey got 1,179,000 votes in that Tammany-controlled Democratic stronghold against only 850,000 Democratic votes for Mead. Lehman did but little better against Ives, the city bi-partisan vote being Ives 1,007,000 against 963,000 for Lehman. In both cases the ALP contributed 355,000 votes to Mead and 366,000 votes to Lehman (they expected 390,000), which, added to the regular Democratic vote, enabled them barely to win the city. But by such tactics, here again, the Democratic leadership chased away so many Democratic voters that they actually politically weakened themselves—and actually defeated themselves in their races.

Now the Democratic strategy was unmistakably plain. They figured they would play with the Communists, leftists, radicals or whatever that faction may want to call itself, and that the faction would contribute enough votes to win. The strategy of the faction is equally obvious. The small communists, etc. minority wanted to establish itself in control by wielding a political balance of power over the Democrats. Although numerically weak, they succeeded in engineering Democratic campaign strategy to the leftist viewpoint, believing that the Democrats had to go to Communism to win.

This is the political lesson of the election. The nation's adverse element (if not subversive) could not contribute enough to the Democrats to win an election even in their strongest city. On the other hand, the Democrats lost the election by playing around with such groups.

Now, because they lost on such bad strategy, a large number of Democrats have developed political melancholia. A congressman first suggested President Truman should resign, southern and Chicago newspapers chimed in likewise, and a CIO candidate who had been defeated, thought so too. They wanted to get their own president to quit, appoint Senator Vandenberg as state secretary and have him succeed to the presidency.

This is not the American system. The American system provides for election of presidents every four years and congress every two—and abiding by the results of the election.

The election said this nation should have a two-party government at this critical time. I think it was right. This country was made up on a two-party basis, and it fell into the one party rut (like the one parties of communism and fascism) under a Democratic regime which perpetuated itself in office too long. The election said the people want our system.

Two Recent Events Indicate | Drastic Cotton Price Break

Special to Central Press

• WASHINGTON—Some Washington observers note a disposition on the part of the United States government in recent events to outmaneuver Russia and turn Moscow's propaganda to American use.

Two recent incidents seem to indicate this trend which, some experts believe, is in line with the government's intention to be firm with Russia on the matter of foreign policy.

One is the State Department's policy enunciated by Secretary James Byrnes that the United States does not feel it should grant credits or loans to countries that think America is trying to enslave them.

The other is the statement made by former Senator Warren Austin, America's chief delegate to the United Nations General Assembly. When Soviet Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov called for world disarmament, Austin went him one better. He suggested that Russia's proposed inventory of Allied troops in non-enemy countries include "all mobilized forces, whether at home or abroad."

Cotton has been selling at above parity, despite the break. And parity means a price on an equality with the prices of farm machinery and other products which the farm has to buy. Therefore, as long as the cotton farmer is getting more than parity, he is

Treatment of Toxic Goitre

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MOST people think of toxic goitre as a condition in which the thyroid gland overworks to produce far too much of its stimulating secretion. That is untrue, but doctors today are coming to believe that the over-activity of the thyroid gland is only the most outstanding part of a much more widespread disturbance, in which many other parts of the body are involved.

Doctor James H. Means of Boston, for instance, believes that other glands of internal secretion—the body's chemical plants for making the powerful substances needed in the body's regulation—may also be affected.

Eyes Are Affected

In some cases of toxic goitre, the symptoms affecting the eyes overshadow all others and are even more troublesome and more marked than are nervousness, fatigue, loss of weight, or rapid beating of the heart. In such patients there may be bulging of the eyeballs, limitation of movement of the eyes, especially upward, double vision and retraction or drawing away of the lids from the eyeball. The eyelids may be swollen and the lining membrane over the eye reddened and inflamed.

The eye condition may be so severe that it results in inflammation of the cornea or front part of the eyeball, scarring of the eye, and inflammation of the entire eye. Dr. Means thinks that some trouble with the pituitary gland located at the base of the brain may be, in large measure, responsible.

When proper treatment of the thyroid condition is carried out, slow improvement may be brought about or at least the disorder may be kept from progressing. However, the patient must be under constant care by the physician so that, if alarming symptoms develop, they may be promptly taken care of.

Protection of Eyes

There are some things which can be done to help protect the eyes. Greasing of the eyes at bed-time with plain petroleum, keeping the lids shut with tape or bandages, and the use of smoked glasses may be helpful. Sleeping with the head raised on several pillows helps to reduce the swelling and the feeling of pressure in the eyes.

Factographs

The state of Illinois has the longest mileage of all-weather surfaced roads of any of the states, 80,087. Massachusetts has the largest proportion, 93 per cent of her 17,240 miles of highway being surfaced.

Some southern members of Congress are putting pressure on the administration to force removal of OPA price ceilings on cotton textiles in an effort to bring about cotton price recovery. This would mean higher prices for clothing.

LIFTING OF PRICE CONTROLS on shoes will bring footwear back to the retail trade in substantial amounts. However, do not look for it to happen immediately. Reason—virtually no hides were cured during the period after removal of price controls as hide prices were still on the control list.

This made it unprofitable for tanners to operate and caused the sharp drop in shoe production. Sole leather was the chief problem.

Now that ceilings are off both hides and the finished shoes, industry sources have the green light for full production. It will take several months to get the leather output back to requirements, not so long as to make the shoes when manufacturers get the materials.

Some industry sources predict a 15 to 20 per cent boost in shoe prices.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN's four-motored DC-54, "The Sacred Cow," which has churched its way to most of the recent important international meetings, is not the popular plane which many people believe. Its luxurious fittings and equipment, pilots say, make it more difficult to handle than ordinary planes of the same type.

Topping all the cumbersome fittings, the metal elevator constructed to enable the late President Roosevelt to enter the plane, still remains in the tail to give it added weight. Just seems no one has gotten around to taking it out.

Mr. Roosevelt never liked the plane, considered it as extravagance in war-time, and only used it once on the persuasion of Secretary Byrnes.

CHAPTER TWENTY

KIRBY TOOK a deep breath before continuing. "I had the best childhood any kid can have, the childhood of an average, middle-class American child with roots in an average American town. Church and school and chicken for Sunday dinner and the thrill of a new pair of shoes and opening a picnic basket after a swim in the lake. And love. . . . My grandparents gave me plenty of that. They were quite poor, but it didn't seem to worry them. They were too busy to worry about money or to dislike anyone."

"That's very much like my childhood, Kirby."

"Then mother came up to see us and told us she was going to marry Andrew. It sounded good, swell. Kids love excitement and change. I was going to live in New York and there was another house in Palm Beach and a farm in Maryland. Great! My grandparents wept partly out of joy that my mother was going to have such a wonderful life and wouldn't have to work any more and partly from grief because they were losing me. So my mother brought me down to New York to meet Andrew . . ."

"How did your mother feel about it?"

"You see her now, a glazed-over sort of person. She wasn't like that then. She was vivacious and lovely. She wasn't perfect. I was crazy about her. She was so glamorous to me and the most beautiful person in the world and so little. When I was eleven I was tall as she. I thought I'd never stop growing. It's terrible for a girl to be taller than other kids her age. You don't know about things like this, Lydia."

"No, I don't."

"But that day that Andrew came to mother's apartment, I was nine. I knew I was no beauty and that I was fat, but I forgot it that day because I had a new dress and new hair ribbons and I was terribly happy and excited. I knew everything I was supposed to say and I just knew I'd be a big success. I thought he'd put his arm around me and kiss me and say something nice and maybe bring me a gift. The other kids wouldn't have anything on me. I was going to have a father, too, and one I could really boast about. I was feeling awfully pleased with myself and the lining membrane over the eye reddened and inflamed.

In those cases in which the eye symptoms are severe and other symptoms such as nervousness are also present, treatment of the condition with X-ray may be advisable. Recently, these patients have been treated with what is known as radioactive iodine. This is iodine that has been subjected to the rays in the cyclotron which is a device in which atoms are shattered.

Mrs. Ahn Speaker For District BPW Meeting

Circleville Group Host To Members Of This Area

Mrs. Rhea McCarty Ahn was the guest speaker at the afternoon session of the all-day meeting of District 6 of the Ohio Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs held Sunday in St. Joseph's recreation center.

Mrs. Ahn has recently returned from Europe where she visited England, Greece, Italy, France, Germany and Poland. She related her experiences abroad where she went as an American home maker with the W.L.W. commission. She gave a first hand survey of the housing, clothing and food conditions in those countries.

As international relations is an important part of the club's program her talk was of great interest to the 105 persons present. Mrs. Ahn is a graduate of Ohio State University's journalism college and is an experienced newspaper woman and broadcaster. She has wide understanding of life in Europe having crossed the Atlantic ten times and having spent two months in consecutive summers on the Continent and British Isles. She has a exceptional knowledge of foreign affairs.

The all day session was opened with devotions conducted by the New Lexington club members. Group meetings were led by Miss Lucile Provo, Cleveland, 1st vice president of the club; Mrs. Hester Wickens, Zanesville, 2nd vice president; Miss Frieda Smithberger, Lorain, membership chairman and Miss Florence Bechtie, Kent, education chairman.

The groups assembled and Miss Nell Flautt, Columbus, sixth district director presided at the joint meeting. Luncheon was served and Miss Rosemary Schreiner sang two vocal selections. She was accompanied at the piano by Miss Abbe Miles Clarke.

For the occasion the windows in the recreation center were decorated with hand painted floral arrangements. Fall flowers brightened the rooms and tables for the occasion. Attractive favors were presented to each guest.

Following Mrs. Ahn's talk a group discussion was held and the meeting was adjourned. Members of the Circleville club who made the arrangements for the successful meeting were Mrs. Harriet Hennessy, president, Mary Kathryn Kennedy, Miss Clara Southward, Mrs. G. Guy Campbell, Mrs. Rose Rader, Miss Rose Good, Miss Minnie Palm and Mrs. Esther Work.

Warning Against Diphteria Issued To All Parents

COUNTY IS FREE OF DIPHTHERIA AT THE PRESENT

Immunization Program In All Schools Carried On; Wider Use Urged

Warning to Pickaway county residents against the spread of diphteria was received Monday by Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, from Dr. Roger E. Heering, state director of health.

In a bulletin, issued from the Ohio Department of Health, Columbus, to all local health commissioners, Dr. Heering urged immunization—immediately—as the best precaution against the disease.

Dr. Blackburn announced that Pickaway county was clear of diphteria but he pointed out there is no way of determining the number of "carriers" of the disease in the county.

"Close to 95 per cent of the school children in Pickaway county have been immunized and the majority of the youngsters also have received 'booster' shots," declared Dr. Blackburn. "The danger spot is the large number of boys and girls of pre-school age, children from 6 months to 6 years old, who have had no immunization either for diphteria, smallpox, or for other disease. The county health department has no way of reaching these children."

The county health commissioner urged parents to take these children immediately to their family physician and to have the youngsters properly immunized, for the protection of the children, the families, and the community.

The state bulletin from Dr. Heering said:

"Ohio has not escaped the general rise in diphteria incidence which has affected the whole nation in recent years. It is believed that returning veterans, some of whom may be diphteria carriers, have had a definite part in giving rise to this higher incidence. Lack of complete immunization programs during the war years is another reason. Whatever the cause, the number of diphteria cases has risen to dangerous heights and every effort must be directed toward a reduction."

For the year 1946, 773 cases of diphteria were reported to the Division of Communicable Diseases of the Ohio Department of Health and 170 needless deaths occurred. To date in 1946, 740 cases have already been reported with the season of greatest expected occurrence still ahead of us.

If more parents realized the life-saving factor of diphteria prevention by protective immunization, the incidence of this dread disease would surely be lessened. It is unquestionably the duty of local physicians and local health departments to acquaint parents with their responsibility to their children concerning diphteria and the effective protective measures available. No child, or adult, need die of diphteria in Ohio!

The answer is immunization now, without delay! Immunize at once all of those who have not had this protection, and give booster doses to those who have not had "shots" for a number of years. It is important that all children
